GAS CO. PETITION IS FILED

Demand Made for $1.65 Rate
With Service Charge

TEXT OF PETITION FRAMED

Council Expected to Take Up
Question in Two Weeks

A new ordinance granting the Lima natural gas company increased rates must be passed as an emergency measure not later than September 6, if Lima is to be assured of gas this winter.

This is the declaration of President Emmett R. Curtin, of the city council, in a petition to the city council filed with the clerk of council Thursday.

This petition was prepared by Curtin following action of the city council Monday night in deciding they could take no action until after a petition from the company has been on file two weeks.

In the petition a charge of $1.65 per thousand is demanded for gas, with a 50 cent service charge.

Unless the ordinance is passed according to the petition, all work of temporary repairs on the lines of the Lima Gas Company east of Lima will be discontinued.

The text of petition, in part follows:

"The Lima Natural Gas Company, realizing that the supply of natural gas heretofore furnished the city of Lima cannot be longer maintained at any assured supply for the future, has for some months been endeavoring to make arrangements for securing a new plan whereby it may be able to furnish a manufactured gas to the citizens of Lima as may be required to use it."

"It has made a tentative agreement with the Medina Gas and Fuel Co., from which Lima has always obtained its supply, by which means the Lima Natural Gas Company will be able to obtain a limited supply of natural gas for a period of two years, only. This contract depends on whether or not the Lima Natural Gas Company can obtain a new price ordinance in Lima for that period. If a new price ordinance is not made with the city of Lima, and the old price ordinance repealed, then the contract with the Medina company is void; and this new price ordinance must be passed, accepted and in effect by September 15, 1920, by the terms of the contract."

"If the new price ordinance is enacted, the price for the manufacture of gas sold under it will have to be $1.65 per thousand, with a 50 cent ready-to-serve charge. The Lima Natural Gas Company has stated that it will, and now confirms the same, maintain a two ounce pressure at all times; and it also agrees that it will only charge its customers such price, within the above maximum, as will secure it a return of 10 percent upon its invested capital; such price ordinance to be for the term of two years, only, which is the length of its present contract with the Medina company. An emergency ordinance will at once discontinue the temporary repairs now being made upon its line east of Lima, and cannot guarantee anything as to the continued supply of natural gas now being furnished under its present ordinance and its old contract with the Medina Gas and Fuel Company, as said company reserves the right to furnish a further supply under existing conditions."

MEN, AUTOS AND GOODS SEIZED

Seven Machines, and $1,000
Freight Loot Found

CINCINNATI.—(By Associated Press.)—Four men were arrested Sunday morning by police officers, who seized seven automobiles and $1,000 worth of merchandise as the result of a sensational automobile chase in the exclusive Avondale district Wednesday night.

An automobile, driven at high speed into a dead-end street, excited the suspicion of a private policeman, who summoned the police. An automobile was commandeered and gave chase. Overtaking the abandoned car, filled with merchandise, a colored man was pressed into service as guard, and a search began. In the meantime another automobile carrying four men approached the officers. The guard summoned the officers, and with the negro driving they took the abandoned car and went in pursuit, capturing four men. The men confessed to looting freight cars and are charged with grand larceny. At the home of one of the quartet five automobiles, all laden with fabrics, were taken in charge by the police.

NEW MYSTERY VEILS KIDNAPING CASE

Augusto Pasquale Secretly Removed from Philadelphia Cell

SEQUEL TO IDENTIFICATION

Pointed Out by Woman in Baby
Coughlin Probe

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,—(By Associated Press.)—An air of mystery surrounded the removal from his cell late Wednesday night of Augusto Pasquale, held in connection with the kidnapping of Blakely Coughlin. Authorities declined to discuss the matter and reports that he had been taken to Norristown to be arraigned on charges of kidnapping and blackmailing could not be confirmed. Neither could a rumor that he was taken to Harrisburg. Local officials Thursday evening refused to confirm or deny a report that he had again been taken to Norristown. Wednesday night from Egg Harbor, N. J., where he was identified by Mrs. Harry Foster as the man she saw conversing with a woman, who carried a small child, at the railroad station there a few hours before his capture on August 2, Pasquale was taken from his cell shortly before midnight by state policemen who drove away in an automobile.

First reports were that they were taking the prisoner to Norristown, but Norristown authorities denied he was there.

Since his alleged confession several days ago of being the writer of the letters signed "The Crank," supposed clues as to the whereabouts of the missing baby furnished by Pasquale have kept the authorities on the jump, but none of them apparently had led to anything definite.

FEELING IS HIGH AGAINST PASQUALE

NORRISTOWN, Pa.,—(By United Press.)—Feeling is high here Thursday against Augusto Pasquale, confessed accomplice in the kidnapping of Blakely Coughlin.

Pasquale was brought here to wait action by the grand jury. Captain Souder of the Philadelphia detective bureau, appealed to residents of Norristown, where parents of the kidnapped child lived, to keep the peace and not attempt violence against Pasquale. He pointed out lynching Pasquale would not restore the child.

Charges which authorities said would be presented to the grand jury in connection with Pasquale's case, included:

Kidnaping, extortion, blackmail and using the mails to defraud.

Pasquale still insisted Friday that Blakely was in Egg Harbor, N. J., on August 2, the day he was arrested near his village. He was rushed to that place late Wednesday and asked to lead the authorities to the place where the child and woman who had him in custody, were staying.

Pasquale took the officials to the home of Mrs. Harry Foster, wife of the Atlantic City detective. She identified the prisoner as the man who accompanied a woman and child to her home on the morning of August 2, but was unable to give any information regarding the present whereabouts of the missing baby.

PRICE BOOSTERS, BEWARE!

Fair Price Commission Lays
Down Fiat to Dealers

Hooey! It's here at last, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer.

Never again will the public have to expect an increase in prices from day to day.

Instructions from the state fair price commission announcing that the cost of manufacturing and producing has attained its long-looked-for highest level reached Chairman J. B. Dugan, of the Allen-co fair price commission Thursday. He declared the ruling that prices cannot be increased will be rigidly enforced in Allen-co.

Circulating giving full information of the state fair-price's ruling are to be mailed to all dealers in the county at once, Dugan declared. The order prohibiting increases is effective August 10.

Excerpts from the order received by Dugan, Thursday, follow:

"Representing the millions of consumers in the state of Ohio, we hereby notify all manufacturers and producers that any marking commodities, shoes, and clothing in this state, that we positively will not allow any increase in price of necessities until such facts are presented to us, and meets with our approval."

This order is backed by the Department of Justice, and any one disobeying it will be liable to criminal prosecution."

Chairman Dugan declared any increase in prices after August 10, reported to the Allen-co fair-price commission, will receive immediate attention.

O'NEIL NOW LEADS SENATE RACE

Late Returns Show Nip and Tuck Democratic Contest

VOTE FOR AUDITOR CLOSE

Republicans Run Neck and Neck
—Davis Still Ahead

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press.)—Straggling returns received Thursday rendered still more uncertain the outcome of the contest between W. A. Julian, of Cincinnati, and Judge A. F. O'Neil of Akron, for the democratic nomination for United States senator.

With 5,594 precincts heard from out of a total of 6,000 in the state, O'Neil was leading by only 239 votes. Thursday morning he had a lead of 332. The race is so close that it probably will take the official count by the secretary of state to determine the result. The count now stands:

Julian 59,951; O'Neil 60,330.

The race between E. M. Fullington and Joseph E. Tracy for the Republican nomination for state auditor also has settled down to a contest that may require the complete official returns to decide. Fullington's lead of 1668 early Thursday morning was wiped out by noon and Tracy assumed the lead by 130 due to the heavy cast for him in Scioto county. His home, which had not previously been tabulated. The vote in 5,532 precincts was:

Fullington 36,385; Tracy 36,535; Stillwell 76,161.

DAVIS HOLDS LEAD.

With only approximately 350 precincts still missing, former Mayor Harry L. Davis of Cleveland, continued to maintain a lead of 17,000 votes over former Congressman Ralph D. Cole of Findlay for the Republican nomination for governor.

Congressman Roscoe McCulloch of Canton, ran a poor third. The returns from 5,712 precincts gave:

Davis 137,493, Cole 120,337, McCulloch 68,834 and Wood 15,185.

Former Governor Frank B. Willis had a lead of 50,000 votes over Walter E. Brown, Toledo, for the Republican nomination for United States senator on returns from 5757 precincts. The vote stood:

Willis 143,124, Brown 92,321, Wanamaker 52,457, Walcutt 6475, Walser 6439.

BROWN POLLS BIGGEST VOTE.

Overnight returns indicated little change in the other state ticket race. Lieutenant Governor Clarence J. Brown had the biggest plurality on either ticket for any office. He was 66,000 votes ahead of Carl L. Kimball for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. Returns from 5210 precincts gave:

Brown 153,624, Kimball 57,210 and Hirst 51,966.

On the Democratic ticket, State Senator Howell Wright of Cleveland, was still leading Earl D. Bloom of Bowling Green, for the nomination for lieutenant governor. Returns from 5158 precincts gave Wright 58,183 and Bloom 55,005.

Harvey C. Smith of Zanesville secretary of state had a big lead for the Republican nomination for chief justice of the supreme court. Returns from 5341 precincts gave:

Smith 130,233, Harry C. Smith (negro) 51,742 and C. Q. Hildebrand of Wilmington 93,308.

On the Democratic ticket William H. Fulton of Newark, was leading for secretary of state on returns from 4883 precincts. The vote was:

Fulton 37,449, Bell 23,202, Hoover 31,637 and Winegarner 25,586. Rudolph W. Archer was leading for the Republican nomination for state treasurer on returns to the secretary of state from 3288 precincts.

The vote was Archer 77,548, Day 70,556. Former Attorney General Joseph McGhee was leading David C. Parker for the Democratic nomination for attorney general on returns received from the secretary of state from 2784 precincts. The vote was:

McGhee 29,563, Parker 22,016.

SUPREMACY IN DOUBT.

Colombus H. Hough, of Delaware, appeared to be an easy winner over C. Homer Durand, Coshocton attorney, for the Republican nomination for judge of the supreme court, short term. Frank W. Geiser of Springfield was leading for the Republican nomination for chief justice of the supreme court. Returns received by the secretary of state from 3288 precincts gave:

Geiser 37,273 and Marshall 31,308.

In the Democratic race for state auditor, Daniel E. Butler of Toledo, had a lead of 6,345 votes over his nearest competitor, on returns from 4900 precincts. The vote was:

Butler 45,536, Harper 38,591 and Perkinpugh 27,930.

BRITAIN FACES 3 CRISES

LONDON.—(By United Press.)—Premier Lloyd George Thursday was confronted with no less than three crises on which the peace of Europe may depend. They were:

1—The French-British diplomatic misunderstanding growing out of France's recognition of Wrangel.

2—The threatened general strike in Britain if the government tries to make war on Russia. Laborites Thursday were demanding that Lloyd George reveal Russian peace terms.

3—The parley of Polish and Bolshevik delegates at Minsk.

Lloyd George must decide whether the reds manifest sincerity in this conference, and if so what shall be done about it.

PIONEER PICNIC AT ELIDA

Thousands Attend 26th Annual Meeting—Rev. Stiles Speaker

History was re-told, old friendships renewed and one more pioneer picnic was held when thousands of early settlers of this vicinity, their friends and relatives, gathered at Crites grove near Elida Thursday to celebrate the 26th annual meeting of the Elida Pioneer society.

Automobiles, horses and buggies and trucks and taxis were pressed into service by the steady stream of people who desired to attend the big picnic. All morning, from every direction, hundreds and hundreds of people flocked to the grove.

By noon the attendance had mounted past three thousand and still the people came.

The quiet little grove had been transformed into a place of festive revelry. Cakes were laid aside by the multitude that packed the grounds and the keynote of the celebration was the renewal of those friendships that had developed since childhood. People from far and near were searching the faces of the multitude, expecting every moment to see some old friend.

A program lasting during the entire day has been prepared. It was presented to the anxious picnicers in schedule time.

N. W. Cunningham of Bluffton, president of the organization, delivered the address of welcome and also spoke to the members of the society as their president. Dr. H. G. Stemen of Middle Point responded. Music was furnished by the Rushmore "coronet band. Rev. T. C. Biddle gave the scriptural reading and Rev. O. B. Smith delivered the invocation.

The afternoon program was featured by the address of Rev. Franklin A. Stiles, of Lima. Five minute talks by old pioneers were also on the program.

Excellent picnic weather added greatly to the enjoyment of the affair. The huge trees that fairly cover the entire grove made it comfortable for all who attended the big picnic, while the older pioneers were also able to enjoy the meeting comfortably.

Picnic baskets were possibly the most popular thing on the grounds. They were to be seen everywhere and along about noon the grounds became dotted with white table cloths, stretched on the ground under trees on which families laid their picnic lunch.

Officers for the ensuing year were chosen but the announcement of the result of the election will not be made public until the last thing on the program.

Officers for this year are: Hon. N. W. Cunningham, president; A. J. Shierlock, secretary; E. Owen, treasurer; W. D. Poling, John G. Roberts, Jas. Baxter, Jr., Henry Desenberg, J. H. Sawmiller, Delbert McBride, J. C. Jones, D. S. Evans, S. D. Crites, W. A. Davis.

RUSS-POLISH WAR BRINGS RUPTURE

Paris Recognizes Gen. Wrangel
Over Protest of London

TIES OF ALLIES MENACED

Violation of Millerand-Lloyd
George Agreement Claimed

LONDON.—(By Associated Press.)—Great Britain has been officially notified of the recognition by France of the government of General Baron Wrangel as the de facto government of South Russia and the question is being discussed between the two governments.

Something akin to consternation is evinced by the evening newspapers over the French action, which is characterized as contrary to British ideas and a menace to entente relations.

Meanwhile King George, who was to leave for Scotland tomorrow, has postponed his trip, owing to the situation.

LLOYD GEORGE NOTIFIED

LONDON.—(By United Press.)—France Thursday officially notified Premier Lloyd George that it had recognized the regime of General Wrangel as the de facto government of southern Russia. It was announced by Lloyd George's secretary. This was the first official word received by this government.

Before receiving this confirmation, Lloyd George had professed to disbelieve the report that France had recognized Wrangel, as it was in direct conflict with the agreements reached by the British and French premiers at their conference at Hythe.

AGREEMENT VIOLATED

PARIS.—(By United Press.)—Premier Millerand, of France, has informed the cabinet that Premier Lloyd George's message, asking Poland to accept the Bolshevik peace terms was a violation of the agreement reached by the two premiers at their recent conference at Hythe, it was admitted Thursday in official circles.

The French recognition of General Wrangel's regime as the de facto government of southern Russia, followed the cabinet meeting at which Millerand made this assertion.

Recognition of Wrangel's anti-Bolshevik government was accorded without consulting Britain, it was understood, and the move would oppose such a step at this time.

This misunderstanding between Premier Millerand and Lloyd George is reported to be likely to bring to naught all efforts to restore peace between Russia and Poland. With the principal allies at each other's throats, the Bolsheviks are expected to embolden to keep up their drive for Warsaw. Recognition of Wrangel may also give Trotsky and Lenin ground for a charge of bad faith against the allies as the Bolshevik leaders had been given to understand that no such action would be taken until after the conference at Minsk, at which an effort would be made to bring about an immediate cessation of hostilities.

ORIGIN OF DISPUTE

The diplomatic misunderstanding between France and Britain had its start, it was learned, when Lloyd George told the house of commons he blamed Poland for starting the war with Russia. Poland, he worked, started it, or advice of France. This caused irritation in official quarters. It was stated that Lloyd George had advised the Poles to accept the reds' terms.

A meeting of the French cabinet was called. Premier Millerand, according to information obtained from official sources, the minutes of the text of the agreement reached with Lloyd George at Hythe, covering united allied action in the Russian-Polish crisis and then asserted that Lloyd George's message advising Poland to accept the terms constituted a violation of this agreement.

INDICTED MAN IS RETURNED

Grover Drew Brought Here From Chicago, Last Night

Deputy Sheriff Clarence J. Friedman brought back from Chicago Wednesday night, Grover Drew, 38, indicted by a recent grand jury, charged with forgery. Drew has been serving a term in the workhouse at Chicago and could not be turned over to Allen-co authorities until such a time as his sentence expired.

He was implicated with Ralph Cowan, it is charged, in forging a check for $65.50 on Alex Miller of the Lima Iron and Metal company and cashing it at the City bank.

Cowan, who was discovered in the act of picking away the cement from the walls of the county jail, in an effort to escape, is now serving a term in the Mansfield reformatory. Before being confined in Allen-co, Cowan made his escape, in a like manner, from the Kenton jail.

Prosecuting Attorney Cable said this morning he would give Drew a chance to become acquainted with Ohio life again before bringing him up for arraignment in court.

BEATS GASOLINE AT 15 CENTS A GALLON

New Invention Makes Ford Run 34 Miles on Gallon of Gasoline. Other Cars Show Proportionate Savings. A new carburetor which cuts down the gasoline consumption of any motor including the Ford and reduces gasoline bills from one-third to one-half the present cost of the Air Friction Carburetor Co., 524 Madison St., Dayton, Ohio. This remarkable invention not only increases the power of all motors from 30 to 50 percent but enables everyone to run slow on high gear. With it you can use the very cheapest grade of gasoline or half gasoline and half kerosene and still get more power and more mileage than you now get from the highest test gasoline. Many Ford owners say they now get as high as 45 or 50 miles to a gallon of gasoline. So sure are the manufacturers of the immense saving their new carburetor will make that they offer to send it on 30 days trial to every car owner. As it can be put on or taken off in a few minutes by anyone all readers who want to try it should send their name, address and make of car to the manufacturers at once. They also want local agents to whom they offer exceptionally large profits. Write them to day.

IN MEMORY.

Death has robbed us of our wife and daughter. Whom we love and cherished dear. It was Myrtle, yes dear Myrtle. Can we help but shed a tear? Oh, we miss how we miss her. When we see her vacant chair. Oh how sad our home is without her. For there is no Myrtle there. But cheer up, we know that she is waiting. On that bright and golden shore. And is singing with her mother. And will sing for evermore. The rose that is sweetest and fairest. Is the one that is killed by the frost. The love that is sweetest and truest. Is the Myrtle that we have lost. She has left us sad and lonely. Not allowed to say goodbye. But we hope and trust to meet. In her home beyond the sky. Sadly missed by her father and husband, Mr. E. J. Lattin, Mr. A. Hanson.

BLACK ASPENS

SYNOPSIS
Following a discussion between Eve Carnforth, who leans towards spiritualism, Mr. and Mrs. Landon and Rudolph Braye, a heated argument follows, as to whether there is anything to "spooks" or not. It is definitely decided that the crowd will spend their vacation at some reputed haunted house, in an effort to prove or disprove their assertions regarding spirits. A house is secured in northern Vermont, which, according to Stebbins, are caretakers, has a real "haunt." NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

The mid-July it was a chilly dusk thru which the two motor cars ascended the last stretch of mountain road toward the old Montgometry mansion. The sun set early behind the Green Mountains and the house, half way up an eastern slope, appeared faintly thru the shadows.

To the right, tall forest trees waved their topmost branches with an eerie, soothing sound, or stood, menacingly silent, in black, sullen majesty. Beneath them a tangled underbrush gave forth faint, rustling hints of some wild life or suddenly ceased to a grim stillness.

Then the road lay thru a thick grove of aspens, close, black and shivering as they stood, sentinel like and fearsome, only dimly outlined against the dark, clouded sky. Once in the grove, the shadows were dense, and the quivering sounds seemed intensified to a muttered protest against intrusion. A strange bird gave forth a few raucous notes, and then the dead silence returned.

A quick, damp chill foreboded still water and the road followed the margin of a small lake or pond, sinister to its inky depths, which mirrored the still blacker aspen trees.

Suddenly, in a small clearing, they came upon the house. In the uncertain light it seemed enormous, shapeless and beyond all words repelling. It seemed to have a personality defiant and forbidding, that warned of mystery and disaster. Aspen trees, tall and gaunt, grew so close that their whispering leaves brushed the windows, and crowded, in protecting, huddled clumps to ward off trespassers.

No light showed thru the deep caverns of the windows, but one faint gleam flickered above the entrance door.

"Where?" cried Landon, jumping from his seat with a fluid on the stone terrace. "I won't go thru that woods again! I'll go home in an aeroplane, and I'm ready to go now!"

"So am I," said Mabel, in quivering, fearful voice. "Oh, Wynne, why did we ever come?"

"Now, now," cheered Braye, "keep your heads. It's all right. Only these confounded shadows make it impossible to know just where we're at. Here's the house and by Jove, it's built of marble!"

"Of course," said the Professor, who was curiously feeling of the old iron-grown stone, "this is the massive country, you know. Vermont marble was plenty enough when this house was put up."

"I get it," beamed Wynne. "It's as much fun as I thought it would be."

They went, in a close group, up a short flight of broad marble steps and reached a wide porch, in the center of which was a spacious vestibule indented into the building, and which stood within the main wall. The walls of the house were of marble, those of the vestibule were of polished mahogany, and the entrance doorway was flanked on either side by large bronze statues, which stood half within and half without the mahogany wall. "Some house!" exclaimed Tracy, in admiration of the beautiful details, which the worn and blackened by time, were of antique grandeur. "These bronze doors must have come from Italy. They're marvelous. I'm glad I came."

"Oh, you got in, Wynne," wailed Mabel. "You can examine the house tomorrow. I wish we hadn't come!"

Landon was about to make search for knocker or bell, when one of the big bronze doors swung open, and a man peered out.

"You folks here?" he said, a bit unnecessarily. "Bring another lamp, Hester."

"Yes, we're here," Landon assured him, "and we want to get in out of the wet!"

"Rainin'?" and the man stepped out of the door to look, blocking all ingress.

"No! that's a figure of speech!" Landon's nerves were on edge. "Open that door—the other one, let us in!"

"Go on in, who's headin' you?" and the indifferent host stepped out of the way.

Landon went in first and Braye followed, as the others crowded after. At first they could see only a gloomy cavernous hall, its darkness accentuated by one small lamp on a table.

"Thought I wouldn't light up till you got here," and the man who had admitted them came in edge, and closed the door. "I'm Stebbins, and here's the keys. This is the house you've took and Hester here will look after you. I'll be gone."

"No, you won't," and Landon turned on him. "Why man, we know nothing of this place. You stay till I dismiss you. I want a whole lot of information, but not after we get lights and make the ladies comfortable."

"Comfortable! At Black Aspen! Not likely." The mocking laugh that accompanied these words struck terror to most of his hearers.

"Nobody told me that you folks came up here to be comfortable." "Shut up!" Landon's temper was near the breaking point. "Where's the woman with the lamps?"

"Where's the man I engaged to look after things?"

"Hester, she's here. She'll be in a minute. Thorpe, that's her husband, he's going to be a sort of butler for you, he can't come till tomorrow. But Hester, she's got supper ready, or will be, soon's you can wash up and all."

Hester came in, then, a gaunt, hard-featured New England woman, who looked utterly devoid of any emotion and most intelligence.

Stebbins, on the other hand, was apparently of keen perceptions and average intellect. His small blue eyes roved from one face to another, and he looked sullen and disagreeable of disposition, he gave the effect of one ready to do his duty.

"All right," he said, as if without interest. "I'll set in the kitchen and wait. Hester here, she'll take the ladies to their rooms, and then after you get your supper I'll tell you all you ask me. But I repeat this place to you, I didn't agree to be a sign-board and Farmers' Almanac."

"All right, old chap," and Landon smiled faintly. "But don't you get away till I see you. Now, girls, want to select your rooms?"

"Yes," began Eve, bravely, and then a gleam of the dark staircase made her shudder.

"What we want is light,—and plenty of it," broke in Braye. "Here you, Hester, I'll relieve you of that lamp you're holding, and you hop it, and get more,—six more,—twelve more,—hear me?"

"We haven't that many in the house." Dull-eyed the woman looked at him with that sublime stolidity only achieved by born New Englanders.

"Oh, you haven't! Well, bring all you have and tomorrow you manage to raise a lot more. How many have you, all told?"

"Four, I think." "Four! For a party of nine! Well, have you any candles?"

"Half a dozen." "And three candlesticks. I suppose! Bring them in, and if you're of candlestick, bring old bottles,—or anything."

"Good for you, Braye, didn't know you had so much generalship," and Clifford Bruce clapped his nephew on the shoulder. "I'm glad I don't believe in ghost, for every last one of you people are shaking in your shoes this minute! What's the matter with you? Nothing has happened."

"It was that awful ride thru the woods," said Wynne, cuddling into her uncle's arm. "I like it—I like it all,—but, the local colour is so—so dark!"

"That's it, Kiddle," said Braye. "The local colour is about the murkiest I ever struck. But here are your lights, hooray!"

Hester brought two more small hand lamps, and after another trip to the kitchen brought six candles and six battered but usable candlesticks.

A candle was given to each of the four women, and Norma politely selected the oldest and most broken holder.

"Land sakes!" exclaimed Stebbins, coming in, "you going to use that candlestick? That's the very one the murderin' woman used!"

With a scream, Norma dropped it and no one moved to pick it up.

"Get out, Stebbins!" roared Landon. "You queer the whole business."

"I'll take this one," and Mr. Bruce plucked up the old brass affair. "I'm not afraid of such things. Here, Miss Cameron, take mine, it's new and commonplace. I assure you."

White-faced and trembling, Norma took the cheap crockery thing, and shortly they all followed Hester up the stair to the shadows of the floor above.

The place was silent as the grave. Hester's slippers made no sound, and a voluntary scraping of Tracy's shoes stopped as soon as he realized its enormous sound in those empty halls. A multitude of doors led to rooms in all directions, there seemed to be no plan or symmetry of any sort. The candle flame flickered, the small lamps burned with a pale sickly light.

Hester paused midway of the main corridor.

"What rooms you want?" she asked, uninterestedly.

"Give me a cheerful one," wailed Mabel. "Oh, Wynne, let us take a little, cozy one."

SCHOOL boys and girls who struggle in their grammar lessons with such terrifying enemies as "attributive complement, predicate adjective, anticipatory verb," and other equally mystifying specimens of grammar terminology will be glad to learn that, according to a recent writer on the subject, "English grammar, as it is now taught, should be dropped entirely from our schools."

Against the formal teaching of grammar as a "thing of laws, rules, ordinances, by-laws and exceptions; an unscientific, illogical, inflexible dictum, which forces children to decline nouns in cases which do not exist, to conjugate verbs in tenses, moods and voices which long since have ceased to be, and to make adjectives agree with nouns when agreement is neither necessary nor possible"—against all this emphasizing of the letter and killing of the spirit the writer makes a strong case.

Perhaps the discarding of mental gymnastics would come as a relief to the teacher no less than to the pupil. Almost every teacher who is at all familiar with the speech habits of school children outside of the class room has come to see the futility of the empty drilling and parrot-like reciting of the grammar hour. It is now admitted on all sides that we have in the past over-emphasized parsing and conjugating and that more recent device for the torture of the school child's mind, known as diagramming. This is evidenced by the fact that the teaching of grammar as it was practiced 25 or 30 years ago has been supplanted in a large measure by methods less irksome and more fruitful to both teacher and pupil.

We can not afford to be less diligent in our efforts to correct slovenly speech habits and to preserve the purity and effectiveness of a language in which is written so much of the world's best literature, and which is the most widely used tongue in the world. If it is our intention to preserve the English language, and not merely to pad a school curriculum, it should be impressed upon the pupil that cultural and commercial opportunity depends in a great part on one's knowledge of his mother tongue and on a desire to use this knowledge to the best of his ability. Slovenly speech, the pupil should be made to understand, is as likely to bring the user of it into disrepute as is slovenly appearance in the matter of his clothes. To this end the home can greatly assist the school.

SOLDIERS GO BACK TO LAND

THE Soldiers' Settlement Board of Canada reports making 7,195 grants of free land to ex-service men. About one-half of the men exercised the rights of civilians in taking an additional quarter section. The total area of land given to the soldiers since the war now is 1,726,800 acres. The new farmers propose living on the land, cultivating the soil and growing crops.

There is something pleasing about the young men going back to the farm. Farming is the oldest, most healthful and ought to be the most profitable of all legitimate vocations. Many wage-earners of the city are waiting for the time when they can go back to the farm. They know the people of the cities need all the products the farms can grow and that the prices to consumers are too high because the supply is not large enough. So they look upon farming as a duty and a mark of loyalty.

In this age of uncertainties it is well for all to look over the offerings in land. The opportunities for home-making are not all gone. There are opportunities in agriculture in all farming districts of the nation. And there are people in all large cities anxious to get back to the land. They are not satisfied with the uncertain, artificial existence as wage-earners.

A FARMER FOR PRESIDENT

NO matter which of the numerous candidates for president is elected in November, the United States will possess the distinction of having a farmer for chief executive. Not in the sense that the winner of the November ballot comes directly from the farm, but due to the fact that he was born on a farm.

Each and everyone of the presidential aspirants first saw the light of day in a peaceful farm home, far from the madding crowd. It was there that they spent their boyhood days, barefoot in season and carefree always. They were brought up as near next to nature as possible. They grew into sturdy young manhood under pastoral conditions, breathing the fresh, pure air of the open field and wood and expanding physically and mentally as nature intended they should.

So now, in this presidential year, we should rejoice that there is no barrier to the "sons of the sod" attaining the highest office within the gift of the people. How often the fond mother, sitting by the cradle rocking her infant son, looks upon the little innocent face and predicts, in her own mind, that some day that little one—her boy—may become a great and honored man. With her hands she has opened the window to a world of wonderful possibilities.

In a presidential year men are made, characters are defined and destinies are scanned by the people of the nation. Because a favored son is honored, it is a time for rejoicing. A good neighbor has been exalted, or a child of the farm becomes "the man of the hour." In the campaign now opening, the successful contender for the office of chief executive of this great nation will be a "child of the farm," for the very reason that each and everyone of the candidates was born on a farm.

Destiny this year has displayed the wonders of her handiwork in behalf of the men whose forebears played a large part in redeeming this land from the wilderness and making it blossom even as the rose.

MISS LIMA: "Fools and children tell the truth, therefore they are not qualified to tell fish stories."

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHILLIPS

ZENA'S FIRST PLACE

It was with fear and trembling that I presented myself at my place. I had learned in my perambulations that I must have the servant's entrance, and the cook admitted me. "I'm the new maid," I told her. "It's more like the lady of the house ye look thin! What for be ye dressed like that if you are a maid. Shure the maids I am aither a-knowin' ain't that stylish?" "Please, Cook," the tears filled my eyes. "I haven't any other clothes." "Right there! Made up my mind to break my resolve to save every penny. I would buy a coarse, common suit of some kind." "If that's the new maid, send her up." A strident voice called. "Go up, the missus wants you." The cook told me, but her voice was kinder. I went up the stairs to the room where I had been interviewed the previous day. "I hope you have come ready for work. The chamber maid left yesterday. I'll let another you get ready to do her work." I opened my lips to say I had hired for parlor maid, not for upstairs work. But I closed them again. I dared not say anything. Mrs. Rush might be offended and send me away. "I will do my best," I said quietly.

JULY BIRTH RATE LARGE.

ALTHOUGH the birth rate for Lima during the month of July was exceptionally large, according to figures at the local health office, it still lacks a small percentage of coming up to the July birth rate for last year. The total number of births for last month were 60, while for July of 1919 there were 74 births. Last month's rate may be increased, however, as some physicians do not report births for several weeks following.

The death rate for Lima during July of this year was 30, exclusive of stillbirths, and for last year was 33, exclusive of stillbirths. The infant death rate is about the same this summer as last summer for July, which is always considered one of the most dangerous months for infants. So far but two infant deaths were recorded for the past month, although there has been a number of serious cases of illness among children and babies.

Not as many deaths from accidents have occurred this summer as last, when six sudden deaths were reported during one month.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Elmer Stinson, Montpelier, Ind., brother-in-law of W. J. Galvin, 326 State-st., was removed to St. Rita's hospital, Thursday morning, where he will be subjected to an operation for gall stones. Mr. Stinson was visiting at the Galvin home when stricken.

EBERHARDT RESIGNS AS "Y" SECRETARY

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lima Young Men's Christian Association on Wednesday evening, the resignation of Frank Eberhardt, who has been the general secretary for the past 10 years, was accepted.

Mr. Eberhardt's wife has been very seriously ill for some time and as all of her relatives live in California, Mr. Eberhardt and his wife will go to that state to reside. Just who Mr. Eberhardt's successor will be is as yet unknown, according to a report given by Mr. R. J. Plater, President of the Board of Directors.

MEN AND MATTERS

Secretary Irving B. Lincoln of the Lima chamber of commerce left Thursday for Denver, Colorado, to spend his summer vacation. Lincoln will visit with his sister, Miss Ella Lincoln. He expects to return about September 1.

Mayor Frank A. Burkhardt left Thursday morning with his family for a motor trip to Beulah, Michigan, where he expects to spend his vacation in fishing. The mayor has enjoyed his summer vacation there for the past several years.

Friends of Cliff Hall, of the Buckeye Pine Line office who has been ill at St. Rita's hospital will be glad to learn that he is slightly improved, and spent a restful night according to word from the hospital.

R. W. Gensel, 1067 W. Market-st., and Ed Wroblek, 963 U. High-st., both well known young men of Lima left recently for Houston, Texas, where they intend to secure positions in the oil fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Young, Dewey-st., announce the birth, Thursday morning of a baby girl. Mr. Young is foreman of the composing room of the News and Times Democrat.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby came when I could no longer keep up. It strengthened my back and relieved me of the dropsical condition which so often develops at such times. It helped me wonderfully. That was my first experience with the Vegetable Compound.

Years afterwards I took it during the Change of Life and got along so well I scarcely ever had to lie down during the day and seldom had dizzy fainting spells. I am now well and strong, can do all my household work with perfect ease and it is a comfort to me to be able to say to other suffering women, "Take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and be strong." I will be glad to have you use my name if it will be the means of helping any one.

Mrs. R. A. FAIRBANK, 606 Orchard Road, Avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Evers and his wife were married November 12, last, and on July 1 of this year, his wife left their home, he says, going to the Hassan residence and taking with her the right to visit the children.

A WONDERFUL HELP

At Two Stages of Life Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Mrs. Fairburn Strong And Well.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby came when I could no longer keep up. It strengthened my back and relieved me of the dropsical condition which so often develops at such times. It helped me wonderfully. That was my first experience with the Vegetable Compound.

Years afterwards I took it during the Change of Life and got along so well I scarcely ever had to lie down during the day and seldom had dizzy fainting spells. I am now well and strong, can do all my household work with perfect ease and it is a comfort to me to be able to say to other suffering women, "Take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and be strong." I will be glad to have you use my name if it will be the means of helping any one.

YOUR NAME

By PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN.
VARIATIONS — Clarke, Clarkson, Cleary, O'Clery.
RACIAL ORIGIN — Norman-French, also Gaelic.
SOURCE — An occupation, also a given name.

IN THE Norman and the Gaelic divisions of this group of family names we have a vivid example of the romance of tongue. Clearly is an English name, an individual's name, the Norman French clearly is an Irish name. Yet both mean the same thing, and indeed there are many Clark and Clarke families whose names are simply the Anglicized versions of the old Celtic name.

Of course, originally, back somewhere in the dim, prehistoric past, there was a mother tongue which gave rise to the entire Indo-European family of languages (which includes the Latin, Greek, Teutonic, Celtic, Sanskrit and certain other ancient tongues of India) as distinguished from the Semitic tongues, for instance, of which examples are the Hebrew and Arabic. In this prehistoric Indo-European tongue there must have been a word-root from which both the Latin and the Gaelic developed words with the same meaning "clerk," or "scribe," notwithstanding the fact that the progenitors of the Gaelic and the Latin languages split off from one another long before the dawn of recorded history. The Latin word was "clericus" (of which the final "us" is merely a case ending). The Irish word was "cleiriche."

The Latin word coming into English thru the Norman-French, developed into a surname thru its use as descriptive of a person's occupation. "Roger to Clarke," or "Clarke." The Irish word became first a given name "Cleiriche," and from this a family or clan name, as "O'Clery" and "MacCleirigh," whence developed the modern forms of Clarke and Cleary, often changed to Clarke and Clarke in the north of Ireland particularly, where the British affiliations were stronger.

YOUR KIDNEYS!

"Don't Treat Your Kidneys Rough," Warns Dr. Carey.

Constant Flushing May Injure the Delicate Organism and Seldom Removes the Poisonous Deposits.

Next that Dr. Carey, kidney and bladder specialist, has read from active practice, he generally warns people that even the smallest symptoms of kidney trouble should have serious attention.

Backache, for instance, puffiness under or about the eyes, or heavy feet and dry skin, are also danger signals. "Around the supply because they neglect their kidneys," says Dr. Carey, "and I feel upon retiring that I should tell all who even suspect kidney or bladder trouble about my prescription, Marshall's, which, during my active practice, has cured thousands of cases of kidney ailments."

This prescription has been given in America and is dispensed by the name of Dr. Carey's Marshall's, a name that is a guarantee from his own trouble should remember. Hunt's Drug Store can supply you.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

The Real Cause of Indigestion

Acids in the stomach irritate and ferment the food, prevent proper digestion and lead to nine-tenths of all nervous and indigestive troubles. Other artificial digestants give only temporary relief and do not correct the cause.

Stomach acids should be neutralized and the stomach kept sweet and clean after eating. This is done by pure Magnesia water made from a teaspoonful of our tablets of Bisphosphate of Magnesia, dissolved in water. This prevents food fermentation and your meals digest naturally and without pain. By following this plan you may eat almost anything without fear of indigestion.

HO, HUM!

A woman often gets the blues. She has so many humdrum cares; When Paw goes out and sits his views, Poor Paw stays home and views his belts.

—Luke McLuke.

Sam Bernard left the Friars club in a taxicab to go home. Half-way home, he reached into the pocket of the light overcoat he was wearing and discovered a full set of false teeth.

"The boys have played a joke on me," he thought. "It is a bum joke," and he tossed the teeth thru the taxicab window into the street. A moment later he reached into another pocket of the overcoat to get some papers and then discovered that it was not his overcoat at all, but one that had been given him by mistake. He told the driver to hurry back to the club, and when he reached there he found the manager of a theatre on Forty-eighth street.

HEALTH HINTS FOR TODAY

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Here is a striking letter from a little girl. It contains a strong appeal to mothers and daughters:

"My dear Doctor Brady: Will you please, thru your most valuable column, urge mothers to tell their children about human reproduction, etc? Some mothers say they don't know how to go about telling it. Isn't it better for them to tell it any old way, just so it is true, than have their children hear it from some nasty, vulgar girl in school, who to tell the truth about one of the most sacred things of life?"

"For this is the case with a girl at school. A girl friend of mine has been told by several girls in her class at school some of the nastiest jokes and things that go along with such 'jokes.' I call them vulgar speeches. Don't think that all girls are like that for they aren't. I went all thru grammar school and never heard such things from any of the girls. Last year, my biology teacher at high school gave her girls lectures on human reproduction. But high school is too late for some girls, for they already have their vulgar and . . ."

I prevailed upon this little lady to give me permission to publish her letter, with certain possible marks of identification omitted.

The United States Public Health Service surgeons found that the average age at which boys pick up their first distorted and unclean information, concerning human reproduction, is nine years, whereas the average age at which boys are offered clean and truthful information on the subject is sixteen years—seven years too late. I don't know how it is with girls, but perhaps there is not much difference. This very illuminating letter, from one sweet little girl is certainly conservative. The matter might be presented much more forcibly without overstating the truth. I hope it may make a million mothers think, yes, and a million fathers, too. However it is up to mother to attend to wisdom tooth had been broken. "Why does anybody make such a fuss over teeth these days?" asks Sam; "when only a millionaire can have any use for them anyhow!"

The trouble with most of us is that we don't want money for the sake of having it; we want it to spend.

Liquor is getting scarce. Every once in a while you will find a fellow who hasn't any.

views which are hard to change. So please urge mothers to tell their children. It makes me sick to hear of such things. Please don't publish this letter. I am fifteen years old daughter's education while father is responsible for the instruction of son.

Our sincere and womanly little preacher mentions lectures by biology teacher. Biology—Knowledge of life—ought to be taught at least as early as geography is taught. Instead of figuratively hiding our heads in the sand—which is very figurative indeed, for naturalists declare that no sane ostrich ever does such a foolish thing—we should have the courage to assume full responsibility for the education of our own children, and take such steps as may be necessary to beat the perjury of filth and immorality in the race for the child's soul. Sins of omission in this sacred duty are grievous and unpardonable in this day of enlightenment.

PARSON'S COFFEE HAS "KICK"

Circuit Rider in South Held For Booze Sales

BIG STONE GAP, Va. — Parson Tolliver Simpson has been a "circuit rider" in the mountains of Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky, for nearly on to forty years. Regularly, with the phases of the moon, Parson Simpson on his bony old nag could be seen winding thru the valleys to the little settlements, carrying the Gospel to the mountain folk, administering to their ills, it such hard-folks "were down," and carrying them supplies from the outside world. And so the parson was beloved of the mountain folk. But now the parson hasn't made a visit to the folk down in the valleys for several weeks. His swallow tailed coat and top hat no more are seen bobbing up and down on his bouncing old sorrel. The parson has found a "bar hole," as the saying goes, and is staying there. And Bud Barrow, who came to town the other day, went back to his clan with the information that the parson had fallen from grace. It's a queer story.

The parson, it seemed, began to feel the high cost of living, even though he always had a bunk and a meal at any of the mountain cabins he visited. But he long had been in close touch with poverty and in helping others had no time to help himself. Then he had the germ of a great idea. He would sell coffee. The parson made all the little mountain towns selling coffee, and only once in a month or so would he go back to the mountains to carry the "truth."

He bought himself a jolt wagon and though the old sorrel balked, indignant at having to pull something, he went on. Coffee became popular in the towns outside the hills and the parson went farther into the larger places. The demand for "java" became greater and greater. Then the parson came to grief.

He sold some of the coffee to a "revonoor" one day. The purchaser found a bottle of white liquid amid the coffee beans. He tasted. Hoop! It made him tingle, that moonshine did.

The parson still is in his "bar hole."

U. S. Buys Most Of South African Diamonds

CHICAGO.—"If the United States should go broke," writes a correspondent in South Africa, "the Kimberley diamond mines would collapse overnight."

The reason of this is, that the United States is the world's greatest diamond buyer and 70 per cent of the output of the Kimberley group of mines and of all South African mines is purchased here.

The Kimberley mine is an open hole 13,000 feet deep in the heart of the city of Kimberley — the largest and deepest hole ever made by man. Tunnels now lead down 7,000 feet deeper. Work in this mine ceased in 1903, and it is now merely being kept clear of water. Underground workings in the bellows mine have reached a depth of 21,000 feet.

Two thousand white men, 3,000 negroes and 3,000 native converts are employed in the three mines now in operation. They yielded 6,000,000 short tons of "blue ground" last year from which diamonds were taken that were sold for $21,500,000.

A Clean Collar and a Clean Mouth

Yesterday's collar laid aside this morning for a clean one usually isn't really dirty at all.

It just doesn't feel fresh. So a man will think little of the laundry cost, for the sake of the clean-collar sensation.

The mouth and teeth really need cleaning in the morning. And they also need that fresh, pure, spotlessly clean feeling that a newly-laundered collar has.

You can get from Pebecco Tooth Paste a sensation of extra freshness, extra cleanness, that almost adds brilliance to your breakfast conversation.

And the cost of a fresh-feeling mouth compared with the cost of a clean collar every day is too low to be figured.

The 'Readiness to Serve Charge'

What Is It?

742 Gas Companies in cities and towns in the United States and Canada have been granted the right to charge it.

MISSOURI PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION ON

THE "READINESS-TO-SERVE" CHARGE PRINCIPLE.

In the Sedalia gas rate case the Missouri Public Service Commission approved the readiness-to-serve charge principle as follows:

"In fixing the form of rate schedule, we have approved the Company's suggestion of a service charge in lieu of the more common minimum charge. We believe that it is the more equitable in that it more nearly assigns to each consumer the costs actually incurred by that consumer. If a consumer is living in a house adjacent to a street containing a gas main, he costs the company nothing until he becomes a consumer. As soon, however, as he elects to use gas the company is put to an additional expense, regardless of whether the consumer uses any gas. A meter is installed. It is read every month, the bills are made out, collections are made, the meter and service pipe are kept in repair, in addition to the interest and depreciation of these items. There are also some gratuitous services and inspections for which no charges are made. While we have not computed the exact costs of this personal service in this case, the items are well known generally and have been estimated by the company at 50c per meter. This is not excessive.

"The minimum charge is more general and perhaps better understood at the present time. It is more discriminatory, since each customer may use gas to the value of 50 cents, and may be charged only that amount in the monthly bill, whereas he has not only used 50 cents worth of gas, but he has incurred customer costs, which we might call personal costs, to the amount of another 50 cents. This is unfair to other consumers who must make up the other costs.

"Objections to the service charge are usually based on a misunderstanding as to the purpose thereof. Consumers will argue that no other line of business attempts to maintain such a charge. In other lines of business this charge is not practical and is not applied for that reason. The fundamental fact is that in other lines a merchant can refuse to deal with an unprofitable customer or make up the loss from other sales. Public Utilities, however, must treat all alike. They must furnish service to all persons who will comply with reasonable rules, and in order that some consumers may not be burdened with the costs incurred by the more profitable these unprofitable consumers should at least pay the expenses actually incurred by serving them. The service charge approaches this much more nearly than the minimum charge.

MISSOURI PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

50% of the consumers on our lines are not profitable, inasmuch as they do not bear their portion of the expenses.

RHEUMATISM Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenebu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all aching, redness, swelling, and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain he will gladly return your money without counting.

Allenebu has been tried and tested for 3 years and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was hopeless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenebu, who for many years suffered the tortures of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenebu decisively conquers the worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Hunters' Drug Stores and Enterprise Drug Store to guarantee it in every instance.

LOVE AND MARRIED LIFE

JOHN IS LEARNING

"I'm afraid I'll have to go now," John, are you coming with me?"

"No, I'm going back to the office," he answered after a little hesitation. "I've lost so much time today fussing over this house that I will have to make up this evening."

"Aren't you coming home to dinner?"

John waited a moment before he said, "I'm afraid I can't, Katherine." And then, perhaps seeing something in his face which betokened that he had an intuition of the state of affairs, he continued: "I'm going to arrange my business in the future, Katherine, so that I can cut out all this staying away from home at meal time. I really don't think it gets a man anywhere."

"And I am sure that it does not," John said softly.

He turned quickly and facing him squarely, he caught the afternoon sun as it came through one of the stained glass windows over the book case, at the side on the fireplace. The golden light seemed to fairly dance on my Chinese gold leaf paper with which the workmen had finished covering that side of the room. Like a kaleidoscope the blue and purple and green and red, splashed itself along the wall.

"Oh, John, forgive me for smiling at you. Can't you see that Elizabeth knowing you as she does, knew that she only had to make that remark to put the idea into your head? She's a clever woman, my dear, and her methods are exactly the methods that one should use to influence you. I expect that she has learned them by growing up with you John. But wherever she has learned them, she knows one thing and knows it thoroughly, and that is that you, my dear husband, do not like direct methods. You want to think that the whole idea is your own. All the women folk about you have learned this."

"Except you," interrupted John with a smile.

"Yes, John, I have to be direct. It it would be a fine thing to have it all decorated for you when you returned, it seemed to me she was right."

"What are you thinking about, Katherine?" asked John as I idly watched the rainbow tints of the setting sun upon the walls.

"I was just wondering, John, why it is that Elizabeth always has been able to make you acquiesce in all her suggestions, while you have always treated mine with indifference."

I rather smiled at the surprise on John's face. I could see that it was a new thought with John Gordon that he had allowed any woman to influence him in any way.

"Don't you think you are drawing it rather long, Katherine?" he expostulated. "I really don't think that Bess has ever tried to influence me. She said the other day that it seemed too bad that we would have to wait so long after you arrived to have the house decorated."

"I hadn't thought of it before, but of course, as soon as she mentioned it, it seemed to me only thoughtfulness to have it done before you came."

"Oh, John, forgive me for smiling at you. Can't you see that Elizabeth knowing you as she does, knew that she only had to make that remark to put the idea into your head? She's a clever woman, my dear, and her methods are exactly the methods that one should use to influence you. I expect that she has learned them by growing up with you John. But wherever she has learned them, she knows one thing and knows it thoroughly, and that is that you, my dear husband, do not like direct methods. You want to think that the whole idea is your own. All the women folk about you have learned this."

"Except you," interrupted John with a smile.

"Yes, John, I have to be direct. It is the one thing, perhaps that shows my egotism."

John came toward me. "Yes, Katherine, you are slightly egotistical, although I have never known you to own it, when it comes to matters of taste or culture and I guess I'll let you have your own way in them after this."

"Oh, you needn't go as far as this, John. Just do not go ahead and do everything yourself, where I am concerned without consulting my. I want, won't you? Like all other human beings, I really like to feel that I am a free agent and can make a choice."

"You bet I'll inquire, Gil, and I'll tell the world that it costs a man money to let some other woman decide what his wife wants."

"Do you suppose the other man will ever learn it, dear?"

"I think he will, especially if it costs him as much to make the change as this room has cost me."

"It costs some men much more than that, my dear, and yet they do not learn."

"TOMORROW" — John Wants to Change.

DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

NEWS OF THE ELOPEMENT STUNS MRS. EDMONDS

As I prophesied, the hue and cry has been raised, because of sister Laura's elopement. (My how that word does thrill the breast of a woman!) The hue and cry descended in the form of Mother Edmond's plus father E. early this morning. Fortunately for my art I had just left the house ad was far on my way to my office when it all happened, but our modern telephone system, which by the way always works quickest when least wanted, found me at my place of refuge, and I mother let me know in an agitated voice that my future in-laws were at our home then, and very much perturbed at the disappearance of the family daughter.

I said as little as I could on the phone, for I knew that an argument would follow, and that I would get all hot up and unfit to work, so being mumbling something about being sorry, and too busy to talk at the time, and about doing my best to come home early in the afternoon, I hung up the receiver (which I acknowledge is a dirty trick at any time) and went back to my drawing board.

It was four o'clock when I arrived home, hearing my evening paper with me, filled with the caricatures of Morgan and Laura. These I found Mother Edmonds prostrated, and waving a telegram back and forth in a bewildered sort of way, the accompaniment of my own mother's sympathetic words.

"To think that my own flesh and blood should play such a trick on me, to think it! And how I have watched over that girl. And as for that wretched man, well they have made their bed—and all the other things that outraged parents usually say when under stress of any kind."

It was in this part of the harangue that they spied me, and with a wild flourish of her telegram in my direction, Mother Edmonds called to me and read this telegram which Laura had sent her.

"Morgan and I married yesterday in New Haven—see Lindsey for all particulars!" Passing the buck with a vengeance, wasn't it? But I did not mind, for I knew that Laura would do the same for me at any time.

Of course there was nothing to do but sit down and give a fair and detailed account of the wedding and explain how suddenly it had been decided upon, and all that. Mother Edmonds took it very hard (she would), and sorry as I felt for her in spots, I had to smile inwardly several times during my recital of the adventures of Morgan and Laura, for she seemed to be so sorry about the most unimportant trifles, after all. For instance, the fact that she had not been present at her daughter's nuptials did not seem to worry her half as much as the thought that said daughter had been married, yes, actually daringly married in an old dress. Her very oldest! And after all the plans she and Mr. Edmond had been making for the daughter's wedding, despite the fact that she was marrying out of her sphere—a wretched artist and all that. Then followed a long and dreary dissertation on modern daughters in general and their shortcomings, all of which made my ears pinken a bit.

Of what good to tell this irate lady of the wonder-look of joy that had shone in the eyes of this naughty daughter of hers when she and Morgan kissed after the ceremony, and all that? None whatsoever. Laura had defied the conventions and was therefore an ingrate and outcast.

Poor, dear, happy little bride, my heart flew out to her in her newfound happiness, and I was glad that she had evaded all the poms and agones of a fashionable wedding, after all.

We finally managed to soothe Mrs. Edmonds, and when she finally left she promised to send a telegram of forgiveness to her erring child.

"LIFE ONE-WAY STREET," WRITES DOCTOR, SUICIDE

NEW YORK.—Fearing he would become totally blind, Dr. Pietro Herrara, a young Spanish physician, turned on the gas jet of a stove in the kitchen of his home and was found dead there. Written on the margin of a newspaper was the following note:

"Life is a one-way street. One can never return from death."

His eyes failed and he had to undergo an operation from which he was told he had but little chance to recover his sight.

The twelve round bout for the flyweight championship of the United States scheduled for September 9, by the American Legion, between Frankie Mason, title holder and Johnny Rosner, challenger, was unconditionally approved by the Lima Boxing Commission at a special meeting of the commission held Wednesday night.

Gallant and McAuley were congratulated upon being able to sign the two scrappers for the bout here.

KING OF SWAT CAUSES BATTLE AGAINST FREE PASS

NEW YORK — The international pass rule in baseball is consuming the interest of fans all over the country—and strangely enough, because Babe Ruth, representative of New York, is the cause of most of the indignation.

The international pass rule is a thorn stuck in the side of baseball for years and years. The fans never liked it, and the players themselves, although taking advantage of it whenever it was thought necessary, nevertheless have often admitted that at best, it was rather a shady piece of work.

Baseball is the only game in which a star player may be made impotent through distortion of the rules. There isn't another sport where an offensive weapon of great strength can be turned to nothing simply by refusing to admit the spirit of a rule.

Last Winter the joint rules committee of the major leagues got together in a bold effort to do away with the international pass. The result was that a ruling was made which forbade a catcher stepping from his box before a pitch was delivered. It therefore became necessary only for the catcher to jump out of the box after the pitch was made. What a lot of rot that rule is. It doesn't even begin to correct the fault the rules committee sought to eliminate. And to a man on the side lines, looks very much as if the rules committee knew it wouldn't work.

It is asking a lot of baseball to correct its playing code to benefit one personage. There, indeed, it won't be any further atoned for. Good many years, but argument that include this statement do not take into account the Speaker, Jackson, Cobb, Hornsby, Wheat, and other luminaries who suffer constantly from violation of the international pass rule. Landon has been roaring for years over the rule. The fact that Ruth is being walked is time after time has added fuel to the flame. The fans know and so do the managers that the base on balls was intended as a penalty for poor hitting. It never was and never could be construed otherwise. Yet the shortcoming of the code when it comes to make a change that will benefit the fans who will be crying for who on this 1934 club paid for money to get into their lineup. This wonderful strategy they not only believed he would be a what of an attraction but they also considered it probable he would be able to bat the team into a pennant. He the stumbling before it is too late.

There has been passed so many times with runners on bases, or when a run might win a ball game without anyone on base that the fans have become disgusted with the proceeding.

The Yankees have hovered with in shooting distance of first place all season long. There isn't a shadow of doubt in the minds of their followers that they would be reaping today if Babe Ruth had been allowed to hit every time he walked to the plate. There are numerous baseball games in the last column of the year. The Yankees standing that might have been won with a lusty wallop. Ruth has been deliberately passed in many of these.

The joint rules committee certainly will have to take cognizance of the shortcomings of the code when it comes to make a change that will benefit the fans who will be crying for who on this 1934 club paid for money to get into their lineup. This wonderful strategy they not only believed he would be a what of an attraction but they also considered it probable he would be able to bat the team into a pennant. 'MARRIED LIFE' IS FULL OF LAUGHS

Mack Sennett Weaves Story Around Domestic Relations

BEN TURPIN IS ATTRACTION

"The Devil's Claim" Also Shown —Theater News

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
MACK SENNETT must have looked upon married life as good material for a comedy and he guessed right, for his five-reeler "Married Life" is great, all the way thru.

If there is anything in the movies funnier than Ben Turpin's cross-eyed eyes, we have failed to see it, and in this picture, Ben works those same eyes as never before, to the great delight of the audience. He plays the part of a foot-ball star, the famous Rodney St. Clair, and later portrays the part of a home-wrecker. This is how it happens.

Phyllis Haver and Jimmy Finlayson are married (not really) and life is sweet for them both until Phyllis writes a play, to be produced for Charity's sake. The plot calls for Rodney as leading man and Jimmy threatens divorce if the play is carried out. His wife, however, is firm and the production is given. Some of the funniest happenings of the film appear during the showing of this play.

Of course, the cross-eyed wrecker of marital happiness doesn't succeed, but the wife and husband are reconciled.

occurred only after many seemingly impossible stunts are shown. For instance, a fight on the wings of an airplane, a plunge from the eighth story of a building and the rescuing of little John Henry, Jr. from a watery grave. Louise Esende is in the cast, tho she doesn't appear as much as we would like to have her. What little she does, however, gets a laugh or two.

This comedy has what all other so-called "funny films" never have, and that's a moral. Most people who see the picture, however can't stop laughing long enough to find it.

So if you're already married, be sure to see "Married Life" and if you're not married, see it anyway.

THE DEVIL'S CLAIM

In addition to the feature "Married Life" the Regent is also showing Sessue Hayakawa in "The Devil's Claim," making their program a double one. Sessue Hayakawa plays a dual role in this film, not unlike Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Colleen Moore plays opposite the star, and the rest of the cast is a excellent one.

Many gorgeous settings are noticeable, which is to be expected, as the locale of the story jumps from Greenwich Village to Paris and from there to Persia. The tale is rather weird and in some places impossible, but it's an excellent vehicle for the well-known Mr. Hayakawa. That boy surely can act!

MUTT AND JEFF—THIS WILL MAKE DAN BOONE TURN OVER IN HIS GRAVE.

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By McMANUS

Short Shavings

An Ohio newspaper editor spent a few days in New York, and while

These comments asked him how he liked the big town. "I came for a very little," replied the editor. "Did you ever think of this? Suppose you lived in New York and wanted to go fishing. Where would you go to find a can of worms?"

"Ah!" exclaimed the general visitor. "That's a big question." "Yes," said Mr. Gipping. "I was just speculating on how I'd have the money if I were to win $100,000 in the Cuban lottery."

"A pleasant way to pass the time, eh?"

Far from it. I got so frightened at the possibility of making poor investments and losing it all that I'm in a cold sweat."

On the liner left the wharf at New York the free and enlightened American citizen heaved a sigh of relief. "I guess I'll have a highball," he said to the steward.

"I guess not, sir," replied the affable steward, "but you may have one if you like."

"Why not?" said the U. S. A. man. "This is a British ship, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then why can't I have a drink?" "We have not yet passed the Statue of Liberty, sir," replied the steward.

Daughter (having just received a beautiful set of pink slippers from her father)—What I don't see is how such wonderful furs can come from such a low, sinking, little beast.

Father—I don't ask for thanks, dear, but I really must on respect.

VAN WERT.—The school three and a half cents in Van Wert County by a 3-4 vote. The total of votes cast was 1236. There were 1048 yes and 218 no votes. School boxes for 2 mills voted upon in several other townships of the county all carried by a good margin.

Ladies! Keep Fit This Hot Weather

Stomach is quick to upset—Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will bring prompt relief and comfort

THE depressing heat makes many women careless of their health. The housework becomes extra time and the hot kitchen adds to their discomfort. They eat cold food and drinks with the result that the stomach is soon upset, and constipation follows indigestion.

It is well to note that there is a remedy that brings quick relief. It is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and you can find it in any drug store. It is a combination of simple and powerful ingredients that act on the digestive organs and soothe the bowels at its accumulation. Take a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin at night and the constipation, headache and feverishness will be gone in the morning. You will then stand the heat with comfort.

There are thousands of women in this country who do not use anything else in these emergencies but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Bart, of 1014 Washington St., Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: "I am cured by Syrup Pepsin, and she personally knows many others who do."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can be given to infants with entire safety. It is a truly wonderful home-bred medicine, and a bottle should be in every home.

FREE Millions of people of all ages suffer from occasional or chronic constipation. Let them send name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 512 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., for a free sample bottle of his wonderful Syrup Pepsin. 8 million bottles were bought at drug stores last year, the largest sale in the world.

Cocoon Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisifted coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisifted coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.
